One hand helps fighting Poverty around the world

Kids need urgent help

case code:1234

Case description

My hope is that at the very least when my girls hear these stories they will better understand why it's important to support and donate to charitable organizations. Even better would be for these stories to inspire ideas about how my daughters could themselves begin non-profit organizations.

Personal info

Because when kids hear stories of other kids making a difference, it can be empowering. It breaks through mental barriers that say kids are too young to create change, kids don't have enough experience, enough expertise.

More info

So share these stories with your own kids – watch them be wowed by what other kids have achieved and let that be inspiration for how they and your family can help in your own communities and the world.

One hand helps fighting Poverty around the world

Help by sharing, save lifes!

When a charity is created most people think about the altruistic intentions behind its creation. They think that the founder wanted to improve the world or wanted to further a specific cause. While I think that this is true in nearly every case, there are also other strong motivations and sometimes these can interfere with or even supersede the organisation's stated mission.
